Governor Pinchot Congratulates Miners, Operators on Resumed Parley
CONFEREES ARE SILENT
Reports Say Strikers Will Insist on Pennsylvania Governor's Plan

Harrisburg, Pa. — (AP) — Governor Pinchot in a statement Monday expressed gratification at the resumption of negotiations between the anthracite operators and miners and declared the negotiations should produce a settlement not only just to the operators and miners but one which will give the public coal without an increased price.

At the conference of mayors and burgesses a resolution adopted authorized the governor to appoint a committee of seven to invite the operators and miners to resume negotiations at the point where they broke off last August with the understanding that any plans for settlement that may be offered may be considered. This committee immediately started to work with Mayor Durkan as its chairman, its efforts resulting in the meeting between the operators and miners wage scale committee in New York Tuesday.

The governor Monday was to see Rinaldo Cappellini, president of District 1, United Mine Workers.

Back at his desk after 10 days' rest, the governor immediately began work on his plans for the special session of the legislature which he called to convene Jan. 13.

NEW EFFORT
New York — (AP) — Representatives of anthracite operators and miners were quarreled in separate hotels here Monday preparing programs for a joint meeting Tuesday when another effort will be made to reach a settlement of the controversy which has stopped the output of hard coal since Sept. 1.

While spokesmen for both groups maintained silence as to the basis of the discussion, experienced observers professed optimism as to the outcome. Chief among these was William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who predicted the strike would be ended in 10 days.

Some reports say that the miners are prepared to insist that the Pinchot plan be made the basis of negotiations.

INVOLVES CHECKOFF
This plan, to which the operators have objected strenuously heretofore, involves the checkoff, if individual workers agree, and an inquiry to determine whether wages can be raised without increasing the cost of coal.

The operators are expected to lay before the conference substantially the proposal outlined in advertisements throughout the mining region. These are:

Immediate resumption of work at the wage scale in force when the men laid down their tools and a resumption of conferences on a new contract at the point where they were broken off at Atlantic City.

Miners' spokesmen have criticized these advertisements as attempts to prejudice the conference. The miners' spokesmen insist the men will not be stampeded back to work.

COLONEL COOLIDGE HAS PARALYZED LEG

Plymouth, Vt. — (AP) — Col. John Coolidge, father of the president, was confined to his bed Monday because he had lost the use of his right leg due to faulty circulation. Dr. Albert C. Cram of Bridgewater, his personal physician said his patient's condition was not to be considered serious.

Col. Coolidge has been confined to his house several days and has been in bed since Saturday.

RAY STIPEK CAUGHT IN FRATERNITY HOUSE FIRE

Madison — (AP) — Fire early Monday caused damage estimated at $25,000 to the Sigma Chi Fraternity house here routing a few occupants who were in the city during the holidays. There were no casualties, but Ray Stipek, football star who underwent an operation recently was taken to a hospital.

Butler Cancels Notice To Quit U. S. Marines

BULLETIN
Washington, D. C. — (AP) — Brigadier General Smedley Butler Monday withdrew his resignation from the marine corps.

Although the leave under which he had been serving as director of public safety of Philadelphia would not expire until Dec. 31, General Butler immediately reported for duty. He will return to Philadelphia to run a few days to arrange his private affairs and then come back to Washington. Late in January he will go to San Diego to take command of the marine base there.

Pittsburg, Pa. — (AP) — Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler in his own words, has issued his "last blast" and Monday morning is in Washington to get back into the marines, from which he resigned shortly before having been dismissed last Wednesday by Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick, as safety director of Philadelphia.

He left Pittsburg late Sunday night after delivering an address in which he played the political "bosses" of Philadelphia, gave his version of why he was "fired," described the Quaker

City as a cesspool and declared that "because the gang got me fired they didn't bluff me."

The general in his talk, delivered before a law enforcement rally declared that Mayor Kendrick was "all right" but that "he is just in a jam, that's all. No hard feelings toward him or anybody else. It is just a war and unfortunately it came to the stage where I was not willing any longer to carry on my shoulders the stigma of not enforcing the law on rich and poor, big and little, all alike. I was determined not to get out of Philadelphia until some of the big fellows were hit. It is easy to go around and grab the little corner saloon, but there is a big difference between him and hitting at a $5,000,000 hotel."

He said his staff was not so much interested in trying to save the people, but in trying to get a square deal for the police, because the people did not want to be saved, "and the people in a republican form of government either get what they want or get what they deserve and these people in Philadelphia are either getting what they want or what they deserve."

WILSON'S SPIRIT IS FELT IN 1925

His Admirers Call It Woodrow Year, Celebrate His Birthday on Monday

New York — (AP) — Calling 1925 a "Woodrow Wilson" year because of the progress made toward international peace his admirers are marking today, which would have been his sixty-ninth birthday as a national event by dinners and other testimonials in his honor.

The postoffice department has joined in the spirit of the day by placing on sale the new 17-cent Wilson memorial stamp here, in Washington, Princeton and Staunton, Va., the war president's birthplace, Monday for the first time.

At Amherst, Mass., a collection of records and personal letters of Woodrow Wilson has been placed on exhibit. Princeton university has compiled information about him which shows that he held more university degrees than any other person of modern times, including 18 from American and nine from foreign institutions of learning. He was also a honorary citizen of eight European cities, and a field marshal in the Brazilian army.

Among those invited to sit at the speakers' table at the New York dinner are Mrs. Wilson, General Tasker, H. Bliss and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Ignace Jan Paderewski, the statesman, and pianist will be one of the speakers.

ALUMNI BOARD FLAYS REGENT GIFT POLICY

Sweeping Rejection of All University Endowments Is Strongly Opposed

St. Paul, Minn. — (AP) — "Sweeping rejection in advance of any and all gifts from educational foundations" is opposed by a majority of the University of Wisconsin alumni committee that investigated the gift controversy.

Such a policy seems based on "groundless fear" that academic freedom would be hampered, the committee states in its report, made public here Monday by former Judge Oscar Hallam, chairman.

Appointment of a committee to confer with the board of regents "at a proper and convenient time," if the report is approved by the Alumni association, is recommended. The committee states that it "deems it wise and desirable that the alumni seek cooperation with the board of regents in this important matter."

The report concludes an investigation of the adoption by the university board of regents Aug. 5 of a resolution that "no gifts, donations or subsidies shall in the future be accepted by or on behalf of the University of Wisconsin from any incorporated educational endowments or organizations of like character."

MANY CONCUR
Members of the alumni committee, appointed by George I. Baugh, Chicago, president of the University of Wisconsin Alumni association, who concurred in the majority report are State Senator Harry Southoff, Madison, Wis.; Karl Mann, New York; Harry W. Adams, Beloit, Wis.; and Robert B. Dickie, North Freedom, Wis.; Mrs. Edna J. Chynoweth, Madison, would not join in the report. Richard M. Lunke, Merrill, Wis., and Dr. Spencer D. Beebe, Sparta, Wis., submitted separate reports. Chairman Hallam announced. Mr. Rukins' report, previously made public, supported the regents' action.

"We are opposed to a sweeping rejection in advance of any and all gifts from educational foundations," the committee reported. It seems to us such policy is based on groundless fear and is contrary to the legislative and administrative policy under which the university has prospered so well since its foundation. If danger from such gifts would arise, it might be expected from gifts for pensions to instructors such as the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching, and yet we have heard no claim that the benefaction which was accepted by the legislature had any such result.

"There may possibly be educational purposes for which private endowments should not be received. If so we do not regard medical or scientific research as such a purpose. There may be sources from which the university should not receive a gift, even for medical or scientific research. We do not regard the General Education board as such a source." The General Education board was endowed by John D. Rockefeller.

NOT AT STAKE
"Academic freedom" at the university is not threatened the committee declares. The president and faculty, the board of regents, the legislature, the people of the state, and the student body are "tackles" with which "any man who shall set out with the sinister intention of restraining academic freedom" would have to reckon with, it contends.

"To those who say that there is danger that the giving of gifts not to the gain of any person, but to the cause of scientific research, will restrain academic freedom in the University of Wisconsin, knowing as we do the spirit of the faculty, the student body, those who bear official responsibility and the people of the state who do not, we say it can't be done," the committee asserts.

WAS ACCEPTED
The gifts which prompted the resolution of the board of regents was a donation by the General Education board of $12,500 for research in pharmacology. The gift was finally accepted because commitments had been made on the strength of it, the alumni committee reports, but at the same time the regents "at occasion to pass the resolution above mentioned, the effect of which is that no further gifts from this source may hereafter be received."

"The gift in question was for a medical and scientific purpose and

Foreign Raw Material Probe Only Meant To Arouse Public Opinion

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C. — All sorts of opportunities to promote ill feeling between peoples as well as governments are wrapped up in the proposed investigation by congress into the control of raw materials by monopolies through out the world.

While Great Britain's control of the rubber supply is the conspicuous point of attack, the department of commerce is striving to formulate some kind of understanding whereby the American consumer will not be charged exorbitant prices. The motive, therefore, is one of ultimate benefit but the comprehensive nature of the investigation may prove a frankenstein. For the truth is, no inquiry of such wide scope as is being discussed can be undertaken without looking closely into the operations of American companies and corporations with foreign affiliations.

Although sugar is not being mentioned at present as one of the commodities involved, nevertheless it is a good example of how American capital controlled in New York city actually manages the sugar supply in Cuba.

Americans are heavily interested nowadays in corporations all over the world. In fact American funds may be found in many an enterprise which is being called a monopoly by the officials of the American government. Were these monopolies conducted in side the United States with products of American soil or manufacture, the Sherman anti-trust laws and the provisions of the federal trade act would reach offenders.

What the department of commerce wants is some kind of protection against monopoly which resides abroad but reaches into America. Thus in the matter of pulpwood which is so essential in the making of newsprint, there is talk of mergers and monopolies so that the supply in Canada will be cornered in a few years. American paper mills might become wholly dependent on a pulpwood trust resident in Canada where prices could be shot upward almost at will.

Secretary Hoover foresees possibilities of danger to the American consumer and is using every weapon at his disposal to command public attention. The congressional inquiry is really a means of arousing public opinion for congress is admittedly powerless. Even should laws be passed forbidding Americans to lend funds to companies abroad which monopolize a product and hold up American consumers, there is grave doubt as to its constitutionality or practicability.

So the only thing which can be done is to negotiate trade agreements with various countries very much along the line of tariff acts. The question is whether foreign countries which just now need every bit of stimulus they can get will voluntarily restrain their nationals from exploiting the American consumer while the mulcting is good.

Reciprocity as a principle of international intercourse has been found effective in making trade treaties and will have to be invoked again. What does constitute a fair price for raw materials? This question was raised during the war when the allies came together under an international economic control. But it was not solved. All efforts at artificial price-fixing internationally have been surrounded with ill feeling. For the capacity of the American consumer to pay is regarded abroad as well nigh limitless. Until the United States shows that it will be forced to raise the prices of the products it controls and makes a real threat of retaliation, the foreign monopolies will hardly be affected.

The truth is American producers are not organized sufficiently to permit of governmental cooperation in a retaliatory war. No law could be passed forcing American producers to withhold their goods except at certain prices.

TWO NEARLY PERISH IN SHEBOYGAN RIVER
Sheboygan — William Eichberg and Henry Brummeyer are in St. Nicholas hospital suffering from exposure after narrowly escaping death in the frigid waters of the Sheboygan river. Eichberg fell from the gangplank of a fish tug and Brummeyer jumped in after him. Eichberg caught hold of Brummeyer and the latter clung to an ice-covered piling until the cold wind froze his hands. They struggled for 30 minutes before they were rescued.

The men could not catch the ropes given them because of the frozen hands, so slip knots were made and they were pulled ashore. Brummeyer's shoulder was dislocated while he was being pulled on the dock. The men are on the verge of pneumonia.

GOODRICH ENGINEER DIES IN MANITOWOC

Manitowoc — (AP) — William E. Elliott, 81, for 50 years chief engineer of the Goodrich Transit company and retired by the company on a life pension two years ago, died here Monday morning. He was well known all over the lakes and was one of the authorities on marine transportation. He was a charter member of the Manitowoc Lodge of Elks and two months ago the local lodge honored him by election as a life member of the organization. In early days he was in command of many lake vessels and later as chief engineer of the Goodrich company with headquarters here and at Chicago. He was a close personal friend of the late Captain Dave Cochrane, former superintendent of the Goodrich line.

StORMS RAGE
While most of the continent was in the grip of the cold wave, elemental manifestations of other kinds were noted in other parts of the world. Lightning, in addition to a violent storm set fire to several petroleum tanks at Buenos Aires, causing damage estimated at $1,000,000. Severe earthquakes were felt in several localities in Vera Cruz, Mexico, while storms continued to exact a heavy toll in France. At La Rochelle a fishing boat foundered, drowning seven and melting snow gorged the streams causing serious floods.

At New York city, where the mercury hovered around seven above most of Sunday the weather was biting enough to cause Robert Mayokow, a visiting Eskimo from Alaska, and points north to say "feet is cold." The icy winds, however, did not interfere with the daily swim of 14 members of a Boston organization as "The 14 Street Brownies," although ice had to be broken.

Most of Canada shivered with the United States, the northern continent weather experiencing one of the coldest weekends in years, with the mercury 24 to 26 below in some sections. One note of contrast, however was provided by West Kootenay, in British Columbia, which reported "spring-like weather," a green Christmas, and growing grass.

GREAT LOSS
The cold weather directly or indirectly caused 13 deaths in Chicago, while the midwest metropolis saw more than a million dollars worth of property destroyed by fire in two days. Five hundred alarms were announced.

BARTENDER TRIES TO BRIBE KENOSHA SLEUTH

Kenosha — (AP) — Two police detectives went to Hotel Schlitz Saturday night in search of a suspect in a holdup case. They encountered a customer tossing off a drink over the bar and because of his suspicious action, the liquor was investigated and found to be "moon." Samples were taken and the Proprietor Frank Matelski was arrested. On the way to the police station Matelski slipped ten $10 bills into detective Meissner's hand and asked him to forget it. The money was kept as evidence, and Matelski is in jail charged with two offenses violation of the dry law and attempting to bribe a policeman.

Blaine Answers Oshkosh Paper's Tax Criticisms

Madison — (AP) — Governor Blaine Monday issued a defense of the financial policy of his administration. In a letter to The Oshkosh Daily Northwestern he declared "the decrease in state taxes" has been misrepresented. He enclosed a copy of an article published in the National Income Tax magazine, describing Wisconsin's finances and "how this administration was enabled to remit the entire state tax on real and personal property."

"You will observe from that article that through economies practiced by this administration we were able to take $2,500,000 out of the general fund in the state treasury and apply it toward the reduction of real and personal property state taxes," the governor wrote. His letter, in part, read:

"In your editorial of December 21, and in prior news items, you take great pains to misrepresent the decrease in state taxes.

In 1920, the year before I became governor, there was assessed, payable in 1921, for state purposes and the common school fund, against the farmers, home owners and business men, on their real and personal property, $6,037,163; against income taxpayers, $468,100; a total of $6,505,263.

"In the year 1925 there was assessed, payable in 1926, for state purposes and the common school fund, against the farmers, home owners and business men, on their real estate and personal property, not a single dollar, or a reduction in real and personal property taxes of the sum of $6,037,163 from the levy of 1920.

"This means that the farmers and home owners and business men of Wisconsin county will save, in real and personal property taxes, in 1926, their proportionate share of those taxes that they formerly paid.

"The Winnebago county farmers and home owners and business men had assessed against them in 1920, in

Late December Cold Snap Is Attributed by Astronomers to Solar Phenomena

Chicago, Ill. — (AP) — Astronomers, with their eyes on sun spots and other solar phenomena, and weather prophets who recently warned of bitter cold weather the latter part of December, have seen their predictions come true.

Sweeping out of the northeast like valkuries bent on destruction, the icy winds of winter have invaded almost every section of the United States and Canada, leaving death and destruction as a week end aftermath.

From the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic seaboard freezing and sub-zero temperatures prevailed, with virtually no relief in sight Monday, but with some moderation promised Tuesday. The cold break from the northland pushed even into the heart of Dixie, and beyond to the ever-receding Florida.

Nearly 500,000 in whole attire to the cold, accidents were numerous. Property valued at several millions was destroyed by fire and great suffering was caused among the homeless. In the east, notably the low temperatures brought home the seriousness of the hard coal strike, now in its seventeenth week. Below zero temperatures were recorded in several parts of Pennsylvania and other anthracite producing regions.

While most of the continent was in the grip of the cold wave, elemental manifestations of other kinds were noted in other parts of the world. Lightning, in addition to a violent storm set fire to several petroleum tanks at Buenos Aires, causing damage estimated at $1,000,000. People Bent on Keeping An Ear to the Ground

Don't have to be contortionists these days.

They can know just about what's going to happen where to find bargains, buy bargains and rent apartments or hire help by sitting comfortably in an easy chair and reading the Post-Crescent's classified columns.

And as a matter of fact that is just what they do—else Mr. Geo. McDougall of Hortonville would not be able to report that over twenty men applied for the place he had vacated on his farm the same day he had advertised for someone in the Post-Crescent's classified.

When YOU have a vacancy in your organization—or a place to rent—just remember that now-a-days people keep their ears to the ground by sitting up and taking notice of Post-Crescent classified announcements. And then—

City Treasurer Begins Gathering in Million Dollar Levy

Three persons were in line before the office of Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, at 9 o'clock Monday morning when he opened the window to begin collection of the 1926 tax levy. The collection continued to increase in size all day, and the morning however, as the levy was being collected.

Miss Mary Kranzsch, 821 N. Appleton st., was the first person to pay her income tax, while Fred Thiede, 927 W. Harrison st., was the first to give Mr. Bachman when the latter started the annual collection Monday morning. Miss Kranzsch has the record of being first for the third year.

Income and personal property tax statements to the number of approximately 3,500 were mailed out to city residents Monday morning by D. L. Williams, city clerk. About 2,500 of this number were income tax statements.

The office of the city treasurer will be open daily from 9 to 12 o'clock in the morning and from 1 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Property owners are requested to take their receipts of a year ago when they pay their taxes. Due dates for the new year are also due at this time.

1925 BUILDING HAS REACHED ITS LIMIT

That building activity in Appleton for the year 1925 has practically reached its limit is indicated by the records of George Peotter, building inspector, which shows that only one building permit was issued last week. It was granted to Ed West, 121 Tremont st., for a frame garage. The building program will be resumed with the usual impetus within another month or so, according to Mr. Peotter, who bases his prediction on records of other years.

Veterans Will Meet
A regular meeting of Appleton chapter, Rainbow veterans, will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening at Armory G. Only routine business is expected to be transacted. Lunch will be served after the meeting.

Concrete Construction Can Be Undertaken In Winter

There is no difficulty in doing concrete work in cold weather if a few simple precautions are taken. If you intend to put up a garage, add a porch to your home, put a new floor in the cellar, or make any other improvements of concrete, you do not need to wait until spring.

You can begin the work at once. And you can do it yourself if you have at hand the booklet on concrete which this bureau has for free distribution. This contains all necessary instructions and many suggestions for this type of building. Just fill out the attached coupon and enclose 100 cents in stamps for return post.

Mavericks In Congress Flock By Themselves

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington—Nobody in Congress is so favorably situated for having a good time as a party delegation of one.

A member of a big delegation has to submit to party discipline. He's a captive. True, he can insure, but he's hated if he does, which costs him political advantage. He can't enjoy otherwise.

A delegation of one has none but himself to think about. He isn't a captive. He's a minor party and gets no account as such.

Senator Henrik Shipstead, Minnesota Farmer-Laborer, is distinguished thus in the upper and Representative Victor L. Berger, Wisconsin Socialist, in the lower house.

Shipstead and Berger, the two hearts which beat as one—for capitalism and big business.

VICTOR BERGER

Informing, they're regarded as authorities.

Their influence is considerable, from the very fact that, as between the big groups, they're quite disinterested.

The "regulars" attitude toward them is altogether different from the "regular" attitude toward the insurgents, who claim to belong to a big party when the big party doesn't consider that they do.

Of the two, Berger enjoys himself most. Shipstead is serious. He has, frankly, the gloom of the Scandinavian north. Shipstead is in a trend in what he does. A wrong direction, he says so out and out, and admits he has no idea what the end will be—something here, you conjecture from his pessimistic air. These views aren't popular, he agrees, "but we may as well take facts."

Berger sees vastly more of cheer in the outlook. Things are going from bad to worse, certainly. But even that doesn't discourage him. When they've gone the limit, he says, the light begins to improve.

Here's Berger:

"We'll have two political parties—two minds with but a single thought.

two hearts which beat as one—for capitalism and big business.

"We have a so-called opposition called the insurgents. They get their importance from the fact that, in this country, we have no opposition party, and people like to see a semblance of opposition. But all they are is an appendix to the Republican party—an appendix that isn't wanted.

The only place they fit is that of a tail to the elephant. It is a sore tail, and it makes the elephant sore.

"As for the two gentlemen besides myself who are 'mavericks' they belong to the Farmer-Laborites in the house, though only one in the Senate, and we are an appendix to the appendix."

Berger has a sprightly style and doesn't mind taking a crack at himself as well as at others. Which goes to show why, though Socialism isn't popular in Congress, Berger personally is a popular congressman.

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Fair tonight, somewhat colder in north central portion. Tuesday increasing cloudiness and so cold.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
The high pressure area which is causing the cold wave now extends from the Rockies eastward to the Atlantic and from Canada to the Gulf. Freezing temperatures extend southward to northern Florida this morning and zero temperatures over the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys. The pressure is somewhat lower over the Lake region and St. Lawrence valley and snow flurries are reported in those sections. Low pressure is developing west of the Rockies also. The "high" will continue to dominate conditions in this section another day at least, with generally fair and cold weather though some cloudiness may result from the unsettled conditions over the Great Lakes.

GATLEY COMING BEFORE SUNDAY

New All Saints Rector Will Conduct His First Service Here

The Rev. Henry S. Gatley, new rector of All Saints Episcopal church, will arrive here during the latter part of the week and will conduct his first service Sunday morning, according to word received here. The rector comes to Appleton from Missoula, Mont., and expects to be accompanied by Mrs. Gatley.

Considerable remodeling and renovating have been in progress at the rectory next to the church on N. Duane st. and the work is about completed. The pastor is moving his furniture here and will occupy the residence within a short time.

No early service will be held Sunday morning. The rector will preside only at the 11 o'clock worship. Holy communion will be conducted at that time.

Skating as a sport has been revived with much enthusiasm by the Waupaca Skating club, a newly organized group of skaters of all ages. A radio party on the ice one evening last week attracted a lot of attention and was greatly enjoyed as the reception of the music could be heard all over the ice. The rink was in good condition. At a recent club meeting the following officers were chosen for the 1925-1926 season: Ruben Nelson, president; J. E. Mertz, vice president; Jack Lucia, secretary; Ford Whipple, treasurer. Those who will act on the board of directors are Reuben Danielson, Clifford Randall and Charles Nelson.

Sonora
Radio Highboy
for the House Beautiful!

The real charm of radio is music—real music, so mellow and realistically reproduced that it holds one year after year — rather than just a month's novelty of hearing distant call letters.

This radio set is one that gives enduring enjoyment. It has the pleasing tone that made Sonora famous. It is made by the Sonora Phonograph Company which means that it is one of the highest type musical instruments made.

It is a five-tube circuit, highly selective, with remarkable tone quality and volume.

THIS IS THE PRICE YOU PAY

Mr. Mellon, cautious and conservative Secretary of the Treasury, who walks softly and hardly talks above a whisper unless he has something quite important to say, has included in his annual report as strong and practical a reason in support of the Coolidge policy towards the peaceful settlement of international disputes as could be used to affect the judgment of men and women.

He shows that "the expenditures which are directly or indirectly attributable to war and the national defense compose over eighty per cent of the total federal expenditures. The amounts spent by this government in aid of agriculture and business, for science, education, better roads and other constructive efforts, are insignificant when compared with outlays due to war and national defense. This will be the inevitable situation as long as war is the method of settling international disputes. These facts should be faced squarely by those who clamor for reduced government expenditures and at the same time oppose the world's efforts to devise rational methods for dealing with international questions."

We give in nickles for great works of practical peaceful improvement; we throw the gold in slathers in the hideous destruction of war.

If we make no great effort to devise some means of preventing a continuance of this program we will only follow in "the pathway of the centuries. History is a forceful teacher if we but follow the lessons it so plainly sets in front of us. The nations of the world have for centuries, and often in the very best of faith, attempted to terminate wars in a manner to prevent future conflicts but all such efforts have failed because they settled merely the past and had no reference to the future.

We have no doubt that the world court will not be a perfect institution. Neither are our own courts. But to sit supinely by and shudderingly await the next great clash of arms which is bound to come is a reactionary policy to which we should commit ourselves.

THE GAME IS SAFE

When a man is a veritable cyclone in ducking, leaping and plunging; when he is a substantial factor in filling the bleachers with a happy, screaming and excited mob and in bringing into the coffers of his Alma Mater hundreds of thousands of dollars; and particularly when his head is crowned with a sorrel top and he has no worldly means of his own, then the public is happy to see him earn good dividends out of his athletic ability. Such was the general opinion of Red Grange, the Illinois twister, in going into professional football.

Some writers and many people think that the commercialization of his peculiar abilities has gone too far. Perhaps it has. Certainly it would be unfortunate to have the dollar mark ruin football as it has almost laid wrestling and pugilism low. But there is little doubt that football will run the same course that baseball has run. Now and then the financial end of it will be abused but the reaction of the public to a thing of this sort is a reliable safety valve. Professional promoters who have exploited young Grange will find a limit to the public's patience.

Sometimes an article written in a spirit of burlesque does more to check up abuses of this sort than the most solemnly worded expressions. H. I. Phillips writing in the New York Sun drew a national laugh over the featuring of Red Grange in this wise:

"The crowds arrived early. Shortly after one o'clock the bankers and merchants' brass band paraded onto the field. The officials were announced as Andrew Mellon, Referee; John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Umpire; E. H. Gary, linesman; the two captains met in mid field at 1:55 and tossed a $10,000.00 bill into the air. Grange won and chose the north goal with the business opportunities in his eyes. Grange took the kickoff and gained 15 yards at a thousand dollars a yard. On the next play he was thrown for a loss of five yards. This left him with a balance of $10,000.00. Caution was urged by conservative bankers. Grange hit the line again but lost eight yards at the same quotation. The opposition called for more margin.

"On a tackle's back, cashiers forward formation with the expert accountants used as a screen. Grange and two other prominent businessmen made 35 yards. This was over 25% profit on the original investment. Grange next used the hidden wallet play and made $20,000 around right end. The fans were declaring the market oversold. Call money went to 90%. Grange again hit the line for a spectacular profit but was called back and penalized for unnecessary avarice.

"With three minutes more to play Grange fumbled the ball. It was recovered by his board of directors. On his next play Grange declared a stock dividend of 50%."

Grange has reaped great popularity because he has been everything that a good sportsman should be. If his head has been turned and exploiters have made him at times appear absurd it is not altogether his fault. The public wants to see him reap the natural advantages of his ability and popularity but even if the thing is overdone, it will have little if any effect upon a game that thrills the multitude as does football.

BRAZILIAN COFFEE

The great coffee state of Sao Paulo, Brazil, wants to continue the so-called "stabilization" of the world coffee market at extortionate prices and is borrowing from England. As we consume 67 per cent of the entire Brazilian crop the move is obviously aimed primarily against the American coffee drinker. We paid Brazil $158,000,000 for its coffee last year, which was twice as much as the Brazilian plantation men said they really needed to make a good profit. They estimated that the necessary price was 42 cents. They held us up for as high as 32 cents, and are holding us up today for a price between 20 and 25 cents.

Yet the United States is the only large country which admits Brazilian coffee duty free. Instead of retaliating we remain Brazil's best friend. To date we have reacted only as individuals, forcing ourselves to drink less coffee, turning if need be to tea and cocoa. The department of commerce notes a drop of 20 per cent in our consumption of coffee last year.

Brazil's rather coldblooded monopoly can destroy a priceless heritage of North American good will. Congress is already indicating in the name of the people that we are through taking these holdups dumbly.

IT DEPENDS

Today you curse the motorist who nearly runs you down. You argue that authorities should chase him out of town. He always has you worried, as you're dodging in and out. You feel that he's a nuisance to the universe, no doubt.

"There never was a man," you'll say, "who drove with common sense. They always tear around all day, at walking folk's expense." You fear the car, the car, and you wait an hour or so, because the blooming motorist won't stop and let you go.

Tomorrow, though, the scene is changed. You're not upon the walk. You're making lots of other people stop and toe the chalk. The lovely pedestrian has lost you from his rank. You soon forget that you yourself were once the time of crank.

You feel the crave for speeding, and you step upon the gas. Some people wish to cross the street and do you let them pass? The question is riddleous. Why, shucks, look who you are. You used to be a walker. Now you drive a motor car.

In California, a man wrote his will or a butcher's order book. Perhaps he was just going to price a steak.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE TONE OF THE ARTERIES

(Note.—This is the first of a series of talks about blood pressure, arterial and heart disease. Readers interested in the subject should clip and save the articles as they appear.)

Blood pressure, like bobbed hair, seems to be getting more fashionable all the time, in spite of all I can say. Every one who is anybody today has all or less of it. No joking. It is a physiological fact that people have high toned arteries now. A good many of 'em, both people and arteries, although there seems to be no blue blood left in our veins—it is all more or less red, ruby or scarlet, except in old pictures where the blood in the veins varies from navy to sky blue.

It requires about 20 seconds or 25 heart beats for the blood to make a complete circuit, starting in the aorta (great artery) and passing through the smaller arteries, capillaries, smaller veins, great vein (vena cava), right auricle, right ventricle, pulmonary artery, lungs, pulmonary vein, left auricle and left ventricle to the aorta, again. The course seems speedy enough. It varies greatly in different portions of the circulation.

In the larger arteries the blood travels fastest, about a foot a second; in the fine capillaries the velocity is slowest, about nine-tenths of an inch in a whole minute. The current is naturally swiftest in the narrow channel and slowest in the wider stretches of river. The total cross area of the capillaries is about 800 times as great as the cross area of the great artery.

These are just some curious facts I am drawing, not from my own stupendous intellect, but from Howell's text book of Physiology—an extremely unpopulous subject. (In please do not be impatient. The coming to the interesting stuff presently.) May even slip in a few symptoms—can't tell yet, depends on how I happen to feel at the moment. But in order to make this series of talks about the circulation, heart, arteries, blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, cardiovascular degeneration worth while it is necessary to lay down first a foundation of physiology.

I said that every one who is anybody has more or less blood pressure. If you have no blood pressure you're quite dead.

The blood pressure is all in the world that keeps your blood circulation. The heart and arteries have tone. That is, they have muscular walls, which, when life is in a state of constant contraction. The heart and artery walls, in health, are also elastic, so that they can give and take. By reason of this involuntary muscular coat and the elasticity of their walls, the arteries and the heart maintain a certain amount of pressure upon the blood constantly. This pressure is greatest during the contraction of the ventricle (heart beat), which phase is called systolic blood pressure (systole being the medical term for contraction of the ventricle). The pressure is lowest between heart beats, when the ventricle is dilating and the valve leading in the aorta is closed, for then only the elasticity and muscular tone of the arteries maintains the pressure upon the blood. This phase is called diastolic pressure, diastole being the medical term for relaxation or dilation of the ventricle after each beat.

The elasticity and muscular tone of the arteries carries the pressure wave along after each heart beat and produces the pulse. The difference between the systolic and diastolic pressures is called pulse pressure.

There, now, children, that's all for today. Con this physiology lesson over and if you have any friends who are worried about blood pressure, heart failure, heart failure or general breakdown, invite them to join our health class and learn what idiots they are.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Inferiority Complex

Kindly explain what "inferiority complex" is and is there a cure for it? Our daughter, aged 19, a college sophomore, has a very poor opinion of herself; whatever she does she thinks is inferior to anybody else, she is so timid and sensitive. Yet she led her class in high school, and she is a sweet and pretty girl and everybody else but herself thinks so. (G. A. T.)

Answer.—You have explained it as well as I can. Better an inferiority complex than a superiority complex such as too many young 'uns are obsessed with today, not to mention some of us older folk.

LOOKING BACKWARD

25 YEARS AGO

Monday, Dec. 31, 1900

Fire occurred yesterday morning at the residence of Herman A. Kamms but the damage was not great.

St. Elizabeth hospital, which was in process of construction during the past year, was nearing completion at this time.

The Milwaukee road was selling round trip tickets to Madison for the inauguration of Robert M. La Follette, governor-elect.

J. J. Brink of Appleton, had obtained a government patent on his invention of a minnow bucket.

The big French plate mirror at the police station which was the gift of Saecker and Rogers and which was highly prized by the force was broken into a thousand pieces Saturday night when it was pierced by a bullet from a revolver which Officers Fox and Jacobs were examining.

Miss Doerfer of Indiana, who had been in charge of the seventh grade in the high school building of the Third district, tendered her resignation. The vacancy was filled by the appointment of Jessie Driscoll, who had been teaching at Grand Rapids for several years.

J. E. Powers of Oshkosh, called on real estate men here that day.

John Conway left for Chicago that afternoon on a business trip.

Aaron Hammett of Phillips, was in the city spending New Years with his parents.

Nearly all the trains were from an hour to an hour and a half late that morning.

10 YEARS AGO

Monday, Dec. 27, 1915

Chief of Police Michael Garvey and Detective Walter Scherck were ill with grip.

The fire department was called to the home of Ned Stanton this morning to put out a chimney fire.

Jacob Ashauer of Buchanan, lost control of his automobile Friday afternoon and crashed into a horse and one of the High Arches in front of the Ross tailor shop on College ave.

The police blotter this morning showed that Christmas day passed off very quietly here. The only entry on the book read, "Christmas day, very quiet, nothing doing."

The Y. M. C. A. was planning to hold open house next Saturday afternoon, New Years day.

Considerable excitement was caused at a Catholic church in Menasha Saturday morning at the 8 o'clock mass when fire broke out in the Christ mass crib. The fire was extinguished before much damage was done.

THE AFTERMATH

"I never knew anyone to make so many mistakes as Santa Claus."

"Do your trading at this store and correct those mistakes of Santa Claus."

"It seems that New Year's day was just meant for a second line of defense for Christmas. Now we can send New Year's greetings to those who unexpectedly sent us Christmas cards."

"But why did you pick out this one? Wouldn't the garbage collector take it?"

"Hello, is this the hardware store? Would you accept a brand new washing machine in trade for a shot gun? No, the gun is for me, not for my husband."

"Boo-hoo, I know I told you I wanted a string of pearls, but I didn't expect you to buy it from Sears-Robuck's."

"This blue steel automatic is a beauty or my name isn't Martin Durkin. But how could you guess that this is what I needed?"

"You brute, you just don't like those cigars I bought you, or you wouldn't suggest giving a stag party."

"I'm going to get a kick out of those cigars yet, I'll take them to the office and give them to book agents that break in."

"John, will you get away from that toy train and let Tommy play with it a little while?"

"Humph! How much did you say you paid for this fur coat?"

"No wonder the little dears wrecked the tree! I told you not to put that flask way up there on top."

"What did I get my wife for Christmas? Why—er—why—er, Mary, what did I get you?"

"Santa must be getting old and suffering with poor eyesight, or else he would have seen that this coaster wheel is on crooked."

"Gotta hand it to my wife for being original. She bought me this bottle of perfume, and all I expected was a necktie."

"Can you imagine anyone being so cheap as Sarah Doolittle. All she sent us was this emerald bath towel when she knew I was sending her a nice kitchen mop!"

"No, I'm not surprised that you're stomach is all upset. The next time you go out to sing Christmas carols pick out a different place than Tom Dugan's cellar."

"It was the nicest Christmas we ever had. We got 49 more cards this year than last year."

The Question Box

General Robert E. Lee said: "The thorough education of people is the most efficacious means of promoting the prosperity of the Nation." These words of the distinguished Southern General are none the less true now than when he spoke them. Our Washington Information Bureau is one of the greatest agencies for the distribution of free information and educational data in the world. Its services are free to readers of this paper. Q. What classes of designs can be covered by patents, and how long is the term for which a design patent is granted? J. B. C.

A. New and original ornamental designs for articles of manufacture can be patented. Ornamental character, of beauty, is a requisite to patentability. Mere utility is not taken into consideration, and it is questionable whether an article to which ornamentation would give no value is proper subject-matter of a design patent. A design is not patentable if it was known or used by others in this country before invention thereof by the applicant for patents, or if it was patented or described in any printed publication in this or any foreign country before his invention thereof, or more than two years prior to his application, or was in public use or on sale in this country for more than two years prior to his application.

Q. Does the custom of burying at sea still prevail? J. S. H.

A. There have been no burials at sea for a great many years, as all large ships are equipped with apparatus for embalming the bodies of those who die on shipboard.

Q. Did Bryan resign command of his regiment in the Spanish-American War before he knew it would not be called? F. S. B.

A. William J. Bryan did not resign command of his regiment of Nebraska volunteers until it was mustered out at the conclusion of the Spanish-American War.

Q. What are the two elements recently discovered? R. D. C.

A. Dr. Walter Noddack of the University of Berlin, reports the discovery of two new elements, to which he has assigned the names Masburium and Rhenium—after the Masurian and Rhine provinces lost to Germany after the war. Both of the elements are heavy metals resembling manganese more than any other, and were found in the minerals gadolinite and columbite. As a rough estimate, about one part in a million of the substance which makes up the earth crust is of these new elements.

Q. Why is a set of type called a "font"? A. G.

A. Font is from the French verb "fondre" meaning "to cast." In England it is spelled fount. A font is a complete assortment of types of one face and size, and includes capital letters, small capitals, lower-case letters, numerals, punctuation marks, etc.

Q. What does the name "Shannon" mean? A. C. S.

A. "Shannon" is a surname derived from the Gaelic "Sean" meaning old, plus the Irish diminutive suffix "an".

Q. For how long a period in the winter time is freight service interrupted on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence route? M. L.

A. Over a period of 20 years the length of the closed season on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence route has been as follows: At the "Soo," 141 days; at the Welland, 128 days; St. Lawrence River, 150 days.

Oh Dear, the Difference There is in Children the end the prairie breaks down the woman's mind and takes her life, and the boy is without the stamina to stand up to it and he in his turn is alienated from his father and goes the way of the shiftless. The prairie has ruthlessly destroyed the weak something that no more "popular" novelist would have dared to do.

PRAIRIE SUPPLANTS ALL

But the same prairie has nourished the strong. For the man in the story it takes the place of wife and son, a society, of love, of everything that the average man seems to need. Drought in summer and blizzards in winter hail storms that destroy a season's labor in an hour, hardships almost unendurable to the average person, a wife whose mind is gradually falling, a son who is obviously a mental and physical weakling—all are unable to take away from him a sense of duty, exaltation, a sense of rightness, of his being where he belongs. The prairie is a daily nourishment to his spirit and he thrives on hardship. It is vital and he daily draws vitality from the land. And like the prairie he cannot understand or forgive weakness. He turns his son from his door, as he himself had been turned from his father's door a generation earlier. It seems brutal but it is the brutality of nature and it is in tune with the theme of the book.

There is a curious impersonality in the story, a subordination of the people in the story to the prairie as chief character. The persons in the story are usually not called by name but are referred to as "the man," "the woman," "the boy," a suggestion of human abstractions to correspond with the abstraction of "prairie." Notice in this connection that the book is not called "The Prairie," but "Prairie." But in spite of that the writer has made his characters alive and individual—a rather remarkable achievement.

But above all, the book is what I what may be called a novel-poem. It is like seen realistically but through the haze of a poetic temperament. And it is almost sexless—two children are born in hardly more than two lines of type; but it is the story of the prairie and its effect on Man and Woman, not the story of a man and woman.

"Prairie," a first book, is beautiful book. It even surmounts the great obstacle of being almost entirely minus humor.

HASTY POLITICAL EXIT MADE BY WATERMAN

From The Charleston Observer.

Mr. Waterman told them he was no politician, but it was insisted that they must have some man to run against the Democrat for mayor of New York, and it did not matter so much about his political equipment—just so he was a Republican.

So, Mr. Waterman quit the pe factory and found himself projected into the sea of politics. He not only found the water cold, but he was subjected to many other experience that probably made him wish he had not allowed his name to be used.

For one thing, he was introduced to the great American art of mudslinging, and all the time they made him believe he was going to be elected.

He must have been a little puzzled, therefore, when, after it had become evident that he was beaten by some thing not very far from 500,000 votes, that he must make proclamation "conceding" the election to his opponent.

Why, he must have wondered, was such a pronouncement from him necessary, when everybody knew of his drubbing? But he was advised it was merely a matter of form—of polite form obtaining in political circles—and so there issued from Mr. Waterman the grave and formal statement that Walker's election was "conceded."

It is a good proposition that the fellow who got the licking in the New York municipal election is on "business men" who had had enough of politics or who will hesitate sick to a trade he knows something about.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Application for marriage licenses was made at the office of John F. Hantschel, county clerk, by Charles M. Schell of Little Chute and Alice I. Nooyen, town of Vandenbrook.

Y. M. C. A. WILL MAKE UP BUDGET FOR 1926

The 1925 budget of Appleton Y. M. C. A. will be reviewed preliminary to making up a new budget for 1926 at a meeting of the board of directors of the association at 1:30 Thursday afternoon. Reports of the employed officers for December will be read and other minor business matters will be transacted.

Daniel Donnelly has returned to Milwaukee after spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Donnelly.

Artists Here To Play For Home Folks

An audience that nearly filled the auditorium at the Methodist church welcomed two former Appleton musicians, Miss Helen Orstein, contralto, and Frank M. Taber, organist, when they appeared in joint recital

Sunday afternoon in connection with the fourth of the series of twilight vesper services.

Miss Orstein, daughter of J. Orstein, displayed a voice of unusual quality and tone. She was selected for a scholarship in the opera class, this fact alone sufficing as evidence for the possibilities of her voice. Her opening number, "Dear Ye No," by Israel, by Beck, pleased the audience very much and displayed her operatic possibilities. Her second number, "Eli, Eli," by William Arms Fischer, was sung with evidence of much feeling for the text. "Oh Lord Be Merciful," a melodious and timely number was sung with a great deal of color and effect. This was followed by the ever popular aria from Sampson and Delilah, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," closed the program.

Frank M. Taber, formerly professor of organ at Lawrence Conservatory of Music and now director of music at Randolph Macon college of Lynchburg, Va., played one group of numbers following Miss Orstein's first appearance. He chose as his first number the Allegro movement from the Fifth Sonata by Beethoven. His second number, "Evening Song," by Johnson used the echo organ and chimes in a charming way and "A Daguerrotype of an Old Mother," his last number, was interesting.

John Ross Frampton accompanied Miss Orstein and a trio composed of Mrs. J. T. Quinlan, Mrs. Oscar Adler and Carl McKee sang the offertory, a short New Years meditation was given by Dr. J. A. Holmes.

The fifth of the series of twilight services will be given next Sunday by the Fullinwider trio.

Dance, Kimberly Club House. Eli Rice. Tonite.

Word has been received here that the marriage of Miss Beatrice Marshall, daughter of Mrs. Jennie Marshall Prospect ave. Milwaukee, former Appleton residents, and J. SEAL SALE WILL MEAN CLINIC FOR KAUKAUNA SOON

Committee Requests That Persons Holding Seals Remit for Them

Kaukauna—Although the actual sale of Christmas seals has ended the committee in charge will not be able to finish its work until everyone who has received seals sends the money for them. "We take it for granted," said Mrs. Thompson, chairman of the committee in charge of the sale "that all those who still have seals intend to pay us for them, because when they were sent out stamped envelopes were sent along so that if the person receiving the seals did not care to keep them he could return them at once with no expense."

"At the present time the committee reports $146.02 in cash and approximately $200 to be collected. If this money is all turned in Kaukauna will have gone over the top as the quota for this city was $700. Most people were cordial about receiving seals through the mail and many of them sent their checks at once. A few returned the seals and there are still many to be heard from. The committee is anxious for these persons to send their money."

The money collected in Kaukauna is to be used in part for a clinic which is to be held in the month of February, according to Mrs. Thompson, and all arrangements for the clinic have been practically completed.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga., adv.

inspired Gene Stratton-Porter to write her into a novel. Or rather, she may be seen on the screen—not in the flesh. For Gene Stratton-Porter, eleven year old granddaughter of the famous author, is appearing in "The Keeper of the Bees" in the part which the late Mrs. Porter wrote around her—the "Little Scout." It was the hoydenish, tom-boy, lovable personality of little Miss Monroe which originally caused "The Keeper of the Bees" to be written; and literally millions of readers who followed this fascinating tale in McCall's Magazine may now know just what the "Little Scout" looked like and compare her with the mental pictures they have drawn of her. It is brilliantly cast, with Robert Frazer, Clara Baw and Alice Mills, directed by Leo Meelan with the distinction which characterized "The Girl of the Limberlost"; and more than adheres faithfully to the spirit and letter of the original story.

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD'S STORY COMES TO SCREEN

James Oliver Curwood, who knows the frozen North as Karl Kitcher knows Broadway, is represented at the New Bijou Theatre today and Tuesday through the presentation of one of his most powerful sagas, "The Hunted Woman," the film offering made by William Fox. The leading roles are played by Seena Owen, Earl Schenck, Cyril Chadwick, and Francis McDonald.

AT THE NEW BIJOU TODAY AND TUESDAY.

The virtue strength of the story and the pictures were had gave Director John Conway rich opportunities. This he took full advantage of them was indicted by the generous applause of last night's audience.

Primitive country and savage men, huge obstacles and high courage, big situations where brawn battles nature's forces, where human brains conquer almost insurmountable barriers—that is the theme of the pulse quickening story. Rich in treatment, swift in action, "The Hunted Woman" leaps out as a screen triumph worthy of the author who wrote the novel.

DRAMA OF EAST SIDE NOW HERE

The majority of authors, when writing a story of New York life, invariably placed their settings in the mansions of the millionaires, neglecting entirely "the other half" of the city's big population.

That genuine drama can be spun without a luxurious background is proved by "The Beautiful City," a First National picture starring Richard Barthelmess, which is being shown at the Elite Theatre 3 days starting today.

The story, written by Edmund Goulding, is laid in the famous "East Side"—that thick forest of tenements where grass and flowers are unknown in their natural state and where limousines never traverse the streets.

The loves and hates of these victims of the social order constitute one of the strongest dramas ever penned, the hero being Tony Gillardi, a flower seller, who is animated by one great ambition—to have a store of his own so that he can marry his Irish sweetheart, Mollie. But he is innocently drawn into a gang feud, and then follows a series of spectacular adventures.

Dorothy Gish and William Powell are in the cast of this picture, which was directed by Kenneth Webb and presented by Inspiration Pictures.

AUTO MAY BE "HELL" -- BUT GRANDPA LIKES TO RIDE

Dr. David A. Porter of Austin, Texas, is 92 and went to California in the cold months of 1934. He is fond of a ride and remarks: "They say the automobile is causing the young people to pull out even so. I maintain it is better to ride in a car."

A disastrous fire swept New Orleans docks at midnight, causing $3,000,000 loss and imperiling many ships docked there. This unique photograph was taken as the flames lighted up the harbor and silhouetted the black outlines of the charred piers against the glare.

This Ford all-metal airplane flew from Detroit to the national air meet at Mitchell Field, Long Island, and became the central figure in the opening of the first airplane sales department in the history of department stores, becoming the property of the John Wanamaker store. Its huge size is shown by comparison with the Sperry Flyer plane under its wing.

Nothing new in these Oxford bags, of course, but lookit the shirt! Ralph Hanson, student at Stetson University, Deland, Fla., is wearing it. The material is figured silk. Florida sheiks are going dippy over the idea.

Clarke Griffith of Washington has a baseball team family and then he has a family of seven children—all adopted. The seven are shown with Dadd Griffith in this picture taken in their home. Left to right they are Lally and Jimmy, the five-year-old twins, seated in Griffith's lap; Calvin, 14; Mildred, 17; Thelma, 13; Sherol, 7; Bruce, 6.

Harold Hamlin, 23, bell boy in an Omaha (Neb.) hotel, surprised society by eloping with Isabel Rich, 21, daughter of a wealthy Grand Island (Neb.) physician. Her father tried in vain to prevent the marriage but failed. Now Hamlin asserts that the father, 10 years ago, worked as a bell boy himself.

Automobiles and telegraph poles aren't good friends, ordinarily. But this time they got very chummy. This auto went through a budgie tailing in San Francisco and would have plunged to destruction if it had not hit the telegraph pole, which prevented its fall.

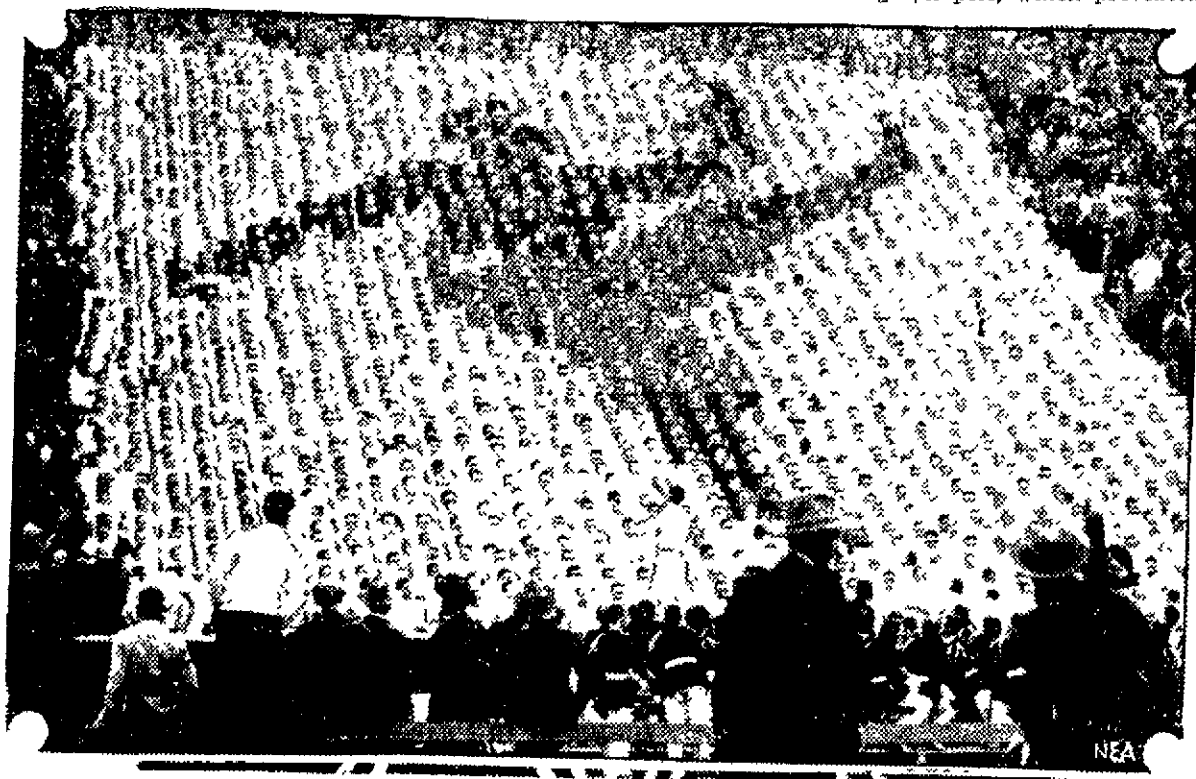

Leave it to the collegians to think of something new! At the University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore., the girls are wearing sweaters with gay scenes painted on the back. The hood maintains that the scene on the back of hers represents the spirit of the campus.

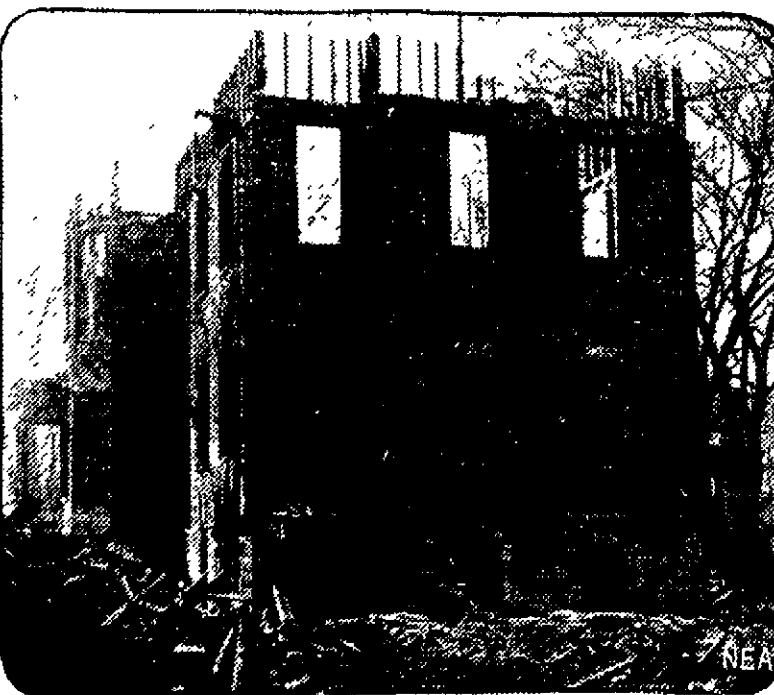

Miss Eunice Wallace, 15-year-old coed at the University of Kansas, is recognized by literary critics as one of the most promising new verse writers in the country. The girl was recently elected to membership in the Rhodanthe national literary organization. She is the daughter of a country editor at Lained, Kas.

Above shows how the windows of the bank were wrecked by the explosion, below, how the interior suffered.

WOMAN CHECK FORGER IS CAUGHT IN POLICE NET

TRACE CLEVER BLOND TO HER CHICAGO HAUNTS

Nemesis of Valley Merchants
Will Be Brought Here for Trial

The activities of the young blond woman who has been victimizing merchants of the Fox river valley the last month with worthless checks were halted Saturday with her arrest by Detective Sergeant Lynga at Chicago. (Chief of Police George T. Prim was notified of the arrest the same day, and he is now making preparations to have her returned to Appleton to stand trial.)

She is Jeanne, alias Edna Wilson, and her home is at Abrams, about 20 miles north of Green Bay. She is 21 years old.

As she is fighting extradition, John A. Londorf, district attorney, is preparing extradition papers. He plans to have the papers ready within another day and the girl will probably be brought back here this week.

Seven worthless checks were alleged to have been passed by her in Appleton recently. She also pled her trade at Neenah-Menasha, Green Bay and Oshkosh. She made her last appearance here the forepart of last week at the Pettibone-Penbody store, but became frightened at the delay of the saleslady, who had become suspicious of the check, and escaped.

This is not her first encounter with police officers. She was arrested with several men on April 15 of this year at Chicago following a taxicab holdup, on charges of burglary and forgery but the charges were stricken off the docket with leave of reinstatement by Judge Lindsay and McGorby on June 13 and Oct. 27, respectively.

A. A. L. BRANCH WILL ELECT ITS OFFICERS

Officers for 1926 will be elected at a meeting of Branch No. 485 of the Aid Association for Lutherans at 8 o'clock Monday evening at Mount Olive church. An address will be given by B. E. Mayerhoff, general field representative of the association. A social program will follow the association. Present officers of the association are: John Fiedler, president; William Mueller, vice president; and Harry Tretton, secretary and treasurer.

WRISTON AND TREVER AT HISTORY MEETING

Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, and Dr. A. A. Trever, professor of ancient and medieval history at the college, have gone to Ann Arbor, Mich. to attend the annual convention of the American historical society. The convention opens Tuesday and will continue throughout the week. Dr. Wriston was connected with the history department of Wesleyan college in Connecticut before coming to Lawrence.

CITY PAYS BOND

OWNERS $58,000

Retirement of $35,000 in Securities Takes Place by Feb. 1

Appleton will retire $35,000 worth of municipal bonds by Feb. 1 and will pay out semi-annual interest amounting to $22,977.50 between now and March 1 on the securities still outstanding. The bulk of this sum of $57,977.50 thus to be expended applies on the municipal waterworks account.

The heaviest drain on the city treasury will be on Feb. 1 when interest on two issues is due and two blocks are to be retired.

Payments due Jan. 1 are $15,000 for retirement of bonds issued for purchase of the waterworks plant and $2,925 interest on bonds of the same nature. On Feb. 1 the city retires $15,000 worth of waterworks improvement bonds of the first issue and $5,000 worth of junior high school bonds. It also pays out at that time $15,912.50 interest on junior high school bonds for six months and $2,452.50 for interest on waterworks improvement bonds, first issue. Another interest payment will be on March 1, when $1,887.50 is due on second improvement bonds of the waterworks.

NOTICE!

Official notice is hereby given to the members of the Outagamie County Agricultural Society that the annual meeting will be held at the Hortonville Opera House at 10 a. m. January 14th, 1926, Hortonville, Wisconsin. There will be an election of officers and other important business will be transacted. You are earnestly requested to be present.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Wm. Klein, Sec'y.

ZERO WEATHER CAUSE OF FIVE FIRE ALARMS

Only Minor Damage Is Done in Fires Which Break Out at Homes

Saturday and Sunday were busy days for the fire department, with five runs during that period. None of the blazes was serious and scarcely any damage was done at any place.

A frame garage owned by H. W. Russell, 508 E. Alton-st., took fire about 10 o'clock Saturday morning when a stove in the building became overheated. The fire was discovered in time to prevent its gaining much headway.

At 3 o'clock that afternoon the residence of Mrs. Lucy Lyman, 507 W. Winnebago-st., was discovered smoking, and an alarm turned in to the fire department. The blaze was confined to the chimney.

Three alarms were received by the department between 4:30 and 8 o'clock Sunday evening. A defective flue started a blaze at the home of Albert E. Fisher, 416 E. Washington-st., at about 7:45. Little damage was done.

The department responded to a call from the George W. Rosebush residence, 221 N. Union-st., at 6:50 Sunday evening, when a chimney fire threatened the building. At 4:40 that afternoon a Ford roadster owned by John McFann, 1104 W. Prospect-ave., caught fire when the owner attempted to thaw out the radiator which had frozen, and the fire department rushed to the scene. The damage was slight.

CITY CHEST CLINIC COMES NEXT SATURDAY

The free chest clinic sponsored every month by Appleton Women's club will be conducted at the club home, 323 N. Oneida-st., Saturday afternoon, Jan. 2, from 1 to 5 o'clock. Dr. C. D. Boyd of Kaukauna, will again be in charge. Thirteen persons took advantage of the free examination at the last clinic.

Audit Books
E. A. Dettman, certified public accountant, started Friday to audit the books of the Appleton Building and Loan association for 1925. The work will continue for several days.

P. O. IS CATCHING UP ON MAIL DELIVERIES

Mail carriers were heavily loaded down with newspapers, magazines and circulars Monday morning, which had arrived during the latter part of last week, but could not be delivered because of the enormous volume of Christmas cards and parcels which flooded the postoffice during the week. The postoffice was still well filled with packages Monday morning, but the greater part of the Christmas mail has been delivered, and postal employees are breathing sighs of relief as business returns to its normal conditions.

J. H. FIEDLER AUTO DAMAGED

Collision With Out-of-town
Car Results in Wrecked
Front

A car belonging to John H. Fiedler, 1424 N. Hartman-st., was badly damaged about 2:30 Saturday afternoon in a collision with a machine owned and driven by Joseph Trzebowski, town of Beuna Vista, Portage-co., at the corner of Mason-st. and Wisconsin-ave. Fiedler was driving south on Mason-st. and Trzebowski was going west on Wisconsin-ave. when their cars met. Damage to the former's car consisted of smashed headlights, dented radiator and bent front bumper and crank case. The front axle and steering rods were likewise put out of commission. The car owned by Trzebowski was only slightly damaged.

Your PIANO

Is it one of the little used or silent instruments found in so many homes?

STATISTICS show that only one of every five pianos in the homes of our people is sufficiently used to justify its presence. Is your instrument one of these? If so, have you not often regretted its utter uselessness? Doubtless you are fond of music and many times have wished for more in your home.

The AMPICO

endows the piano containing it with the actual playing of the greatest pianists of the world.

With The AMPICO in your home

—you obtain not only a piano of renowned make but an instrument touched with magic, so that it will play by itself exquisite music of all kinds from the recordings of the artists who have entrusted to its keeping the preservation of their art for all time.

—In place of the ordinary piano, or indifferent player piano, you obtain an instrument so uncannily human that it becomes Rachmaninoff, when Rachmaninoff's recordings are heard, Godowsky when Godowsky plays, Levitzki when hearing the recordings of that youthful genius.

—You bring into your home an incredible wealth of music of all kinds and an element of culture and happiness the value of which cannot be adequately expressed in words.

May we suggest the exchange of your little used or silent piano for this miracle piano? Bring the light and laughter of music into your home. Let its exquisite influence be a part of your family life—for your wife, your children, your friends.

All types of pianos and player pianos taken in exchange for the Ampico. Convenient terms of payment.

Adventures Of The Twins

Grubby Woodchuck Gets Carless

The day after Sunday Snake helped out Prickles Porcupine by arranging himself around the wheel of his automobile, and pretending that he was a spare tire, Cattie Cottontail did somebody else a good turn. It goes to show how kind the world is.

It was the way. Wally Woodchuck had bought an automobile for the family. It was a nice blue automobile with two seats and a let-down top, and a fine place to put picnic baskets.

Wally was getting lazier and lazier every day, and they do say that the lazier you are the more you need an automobile.

So Wally bought one. But Grubby Woodchuck, Wally's eldest son, got it into his head that the car was bought for him. It was very queer, because nobody had said a word about the car being his.

And the family scarcely ever saw it. Grubby had it out from morning until night, just idling around over the country and having a good time. And at night poor Mrs. Woodchuck just couldn't go to bed for worrying. She kept thinking that her son had been wrecked somewhere off in the dark, or that he had been held up, and all sorts of things like that.

And the gasoline bills were something appalling. Nick noticed that Grubby was getting a lot of gasoline, but he didn't like to tell Grubby's father. Because he never knew when the old gentleman was sending for it himself, or when it was Grubby getting it for mere skylarking.

So things went on and on, until one day Mrs. Cottontail said to Mister Woodchuck, "Say, neighbor, do you know that son of yours is going to get into trouble? Yes, sir, he is. He drives faster every day. I think he goes about fifty-five or sixty miles an hour. He's a regular speeder. My son Cattie says."

"Dear me," said Wally. "I'll have to look into this. I'm glad you told me. I'll go to the new gasoline station and speak to them about it."

So off waddled Mr. Woodchuck to the gasoline station the Twins had set up, to talk over his troubles.

"I've just found out about my son, Grubby, driving so fast," he said to Nick. "And I don't like it. I don't like it. He'll either get into trouble himself or get me into a big damage suit, or kill somebody, or kill himself, or—"

"There! There! Don't get yourself excited, Mister Woodchuck," said Nick. "Nothing has happened yet, and if we use our brains nothing is likely to happen."

Wally brightened up considerably. "That's so," he declared. "There is no use in crossing bridges before we come to them. I always was a worrier, though. What do you suggest? Have you any slow gasoline? Could you fill up the tank in the car with slow gasoline after this when Grubby comes to get it filled up?"

"No, I can't do that," said Nick. "Because there isn't any gasoline that is slow enough to keep Grubby from racing. But I can fix the thiner on the car so that he can't go more than half as fast as he has been going."

"That's fine," said Wally. "Just fine."

Now where does Cattie Cottontail come in, you are asking. Well, pretty soon. The story is only beginning.

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHON-
TON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT
—CONTINUED—

Paula left before Dick came. He went directly to Bee's room. In about an hour he came out and said, "Bee wants you."

When I looked at her I knew that it was nearly over. Her voice, however, seemed quite strong, although she did not open her eyes.

"Sally," she said, "I want you to know that I have asked Dick to marry Paula, and I have given my little girl to her. She promised me to take her home right after I am put away from mortal sight."

"I am sure that Dick and Paula will be very happy together, and I know she will make a better mother than I would."

"It was very sweet of you to come out here, Sally, and I want you to stay a while after I am gone, until Dick gets used to the loneliness of doing without me."

"He is used to having me around, you see, Sally, and he will be very lonely when he hasn't me on his mind."

"He didn't say anything more until Dick came in. Then she asked him to take her in his arms, and she nestled down in them with a contented sigh. There was not a sound in the room except Bee's snoring as he dozed off to sleep."

In a little while each lonely heart came shorter and shorter, and all at once I became conscious that I was listening for something I did not hear.

I stepped forward, Dick sensed also that the body he was holding had sunk down a little. Turning, he looked on her shattered face he gave a shuddering sigh, bent down and placed a kiss on each closed eye.

The nurse drew up the sheet over Bee's head, and in a moment or two we left the room.

As we stepped through the door, Dick and I, he broke down.

Leslie, did you ever hear a grown man sob? It was the first time I had ever heard it, and I tell you it was the most terrible thing to which I had ever listened. He threw himself down on the sofa, and there I left him, thinking that the kindest thing I could do would be to leave him alone with his great grief.

Pretty soon he came out to the garden where I was sitting and said, in such a hurt tone:

"Sally, did you know that Berwants Paula Perrier to have her baby?"

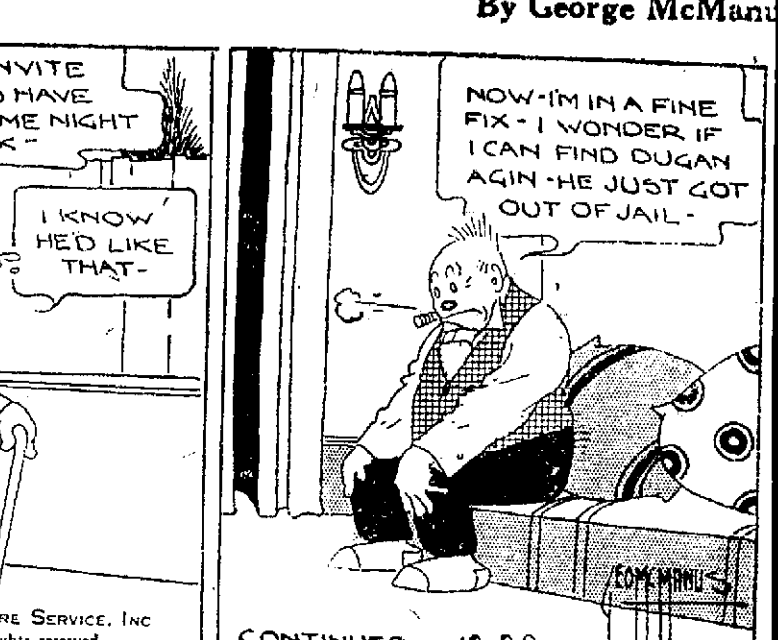

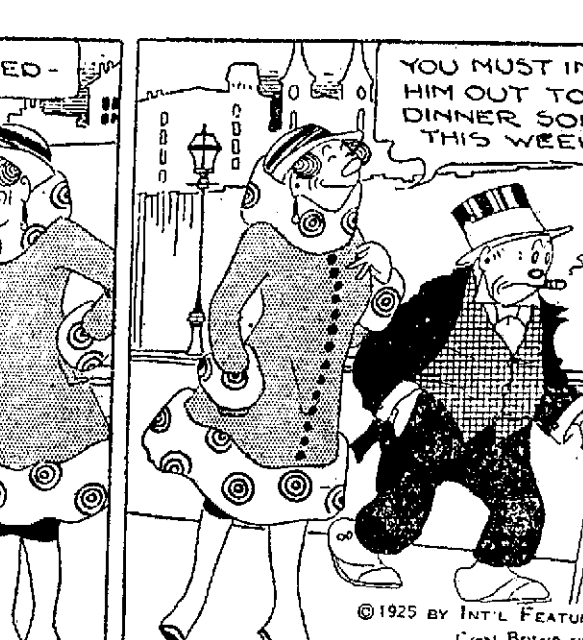

"Why do you suppose that she thought that I was not capable of taking care of my own little daughter?" he asked.

Oconto at Beloit.
Saturday—Oconto at Fond du Lac.

Sheboygan—Sheboygan legion has been a winner in the Interstate league game from the Beloit Fairies here Saturday night by a score of 17 to 16. The game was bitterly fought and "got away from" a substitute of field with the result that play was marred by innumerable arguments and at its close the police had to interfere to prevent trouble. Beloit will protest the game, due to the fact that the score board showed the score a tie, 17 to 17, near the close and the visitors claim that misled by this they had in the last few minutes merely stalled for a tie and an overtime period. When the game ended, they were informed that they had lost, 17 to 16.

Referee, White, Milwaukee

A battle to leave the bottom position in the Interstate Professional Basketball loop is on the books for Monday evening, when Oconto, holder of fifth place, invades Appleton for a loop game with the local crew at Armory G. The Appleton Cardinals have had tough breaks to date and only a "consolation" by Fondy last week kept them from fifth place on the heels of the leaders. Oconto has only one win to its credit, that to Appleton at Oconto, by a large score and has five losses. Another loss will give her six with only one win while a win for Appleton will make the local record read one win and three defeats.

Beloit's sudden drop when she lost two games this week gives every team in the loop a chance to win the flag and with a number of important games this week, especially a double header between Sheboygan and Two Rivers, led for the top ring, the race will be an exceptionally close one for the first year.

Appleton will take the floor with a team composed of all home products and a pair of Neenah boys while Oconto has the same sort of team. The locals lost at Oconto but expect a win Monday night with Basing about ready to play his first game since a foot injury incurred during the last week of the grid season, kept him out. The locals will line-up with McAniff at center, Bahey and Jorgenson, forwards; Schreide, Christoph and Basing guards. Sub's will be Jacobson and Kohl, forwards; Clark, guard. Stars of the Oconto team are Schwanke, giant center Rosenfeldt and Drauf.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Shawano high winners of the district basketball championship at Marinette last March, got off to a winning start by slipping across a 21 to 19 victory over Clintonville in an exciting game. Coach Curtis lost a number of his veterans but his recruit material is considered quite promising.

Al Kubiak, the Pulaski youth who is making quite a name for himself in Milwaukee flat circles is getting to be quite a K. O. king. In a recent encounter at Davenport, Iowa, he poked Hank Melcor on the chin and the former Navy middleweight was out of the world for fifteen minutes.

The race for the Valley conference basketball championship gets under way on Jan. 8. This year's battle for titular honors promises to be of the neck and neck variety. The defeat that East Green Bay, last year's champs, suffered at the hands of Lawrence Frosh, is encouraging to other teams.

Neenah-Menasha had a double representation on the state all-Normal football selection. Breckenrick played superb football for Oshkosh while Knehl, who converted with the fast La Crosse

SATURDAY'S GAME

WEEK'S GAMES
TUESDAY—MENASHA AT APPLETON.
Wednesday—Kimberly at Menasha.
SATURDAY—APPLETON AT FOND DU LAC.

Teams in the Eastern Wisconsin Home Talent Basketball league held their relative positions over the weekend when Kimberly and Fond du Lac, scheduled to clash at Fondy, postponed the battle. A win for Kimberly would have put Appleton alone in second place, while a Fondy win would have saved that team to second just a percentage point above Appleton, but would have aided Appleton and other contenders by bringing Kimberly from its clean record perch and drawing the Athletics nearer the other three teams.

Fondy plays at Kimberly Tuesday evening and Menasha invades Appleton in an attempt to shoot ahead of the local legion crew. Menasha is just a half-game behind Appleton. Wednesday, Kimberly invades Menasha, and Saturday, Appleton again has a tough task on its hands when Fondy, at present tied for second with the local crew, is met at the Fountain City. The teams have split even in two games played to date, each winning at home. Appleton's capers are just beginning to work and showed enough stuff in their fifth game at Menasha last week to make any team in the loop step to win. The local crew consists of Hornbeck, Hieble, C. Tornow and R. Tornow, forwards; Scheurle and Fraser, centers; Fraser, Scheurle and Schwegler, guards.

HORTONVILLE CAGERS WHIP CHUTERS, 26-18

Special to Post-Crescent
Getting off to an eight point lead in the first quarter, the strong Hortonville city cage team, conqueror of Grinnis and other strong teams, defeated Shorty's Shoes of Little Chute in the Hortonville Auditorium Wednesday evening by a score of 26-18.

The eight point lead in the first ten minutes was too much for the Shoemen, who had trouble in locating the hoop, missing several short shots in easy range after smooth defense. The Shoemen staged a comeback in the second quarter which ended 10-6 cutting down the lead to four points, but lost again in the third quarter when the Hortonville squad pulled some neat shooting. The third quarter ended 20-12. The last quarter was a saw affair. While Hortonville caged three short shots, Faldstrom, Williams and Van Handel of Little Chute, each pushed a long one through the ring to end the game. The game was one of the fastest seen on the Hortonville floor this season.

Any amateur teams in the state looking for games should write to Willard Van Handel, Little Chute. The lineup:

OHIO STATE AGAIN STRONG ON COURTS

Judging from its early season performances, Ohio State, Big Ten basketball champion last year, looks like a strong contender for honors again this campaign. At least, the Buckeyes should make 'em all hustle for the titular banner. In Cunningham the Ohioans boast one of the best pivot men in the conference.

Wally Pierce, veteran pin buster from Menasha, still continues to mow down the maples in a way that spells 200-plus counts. Pierce has been performing on the slides for many years but, so far this season, it has been getting counts much better than during some of his former seasons.

NOVEL TRAINING STUNT

Offering the two extremes in pugilism, Frankie Genaro, former fly-weight champion, and Hans Steinke, German wrestler, now a heavyweight who for a time has quit the mat game for a whirl at the ring sport.

Here we have Steinke, who is six feet, four inches and weighs 247 pounds, twice that of Genaro, permitting the ex-champ to use his sturdy right arm as a chinning bar for training purposes.

Steinke, in his first appearance in the ring, ran into so many tantalizing left jabs that he reverted to type and tossed his opponent out of the ring. Steinke lost the decision and his victim about everything else.

Steinke is well known to Appleton mat fans. He wrestled George Hill here last year and made the local mat look foolish without half trying. He got into bad holds and then broke them by brute strength or size of expansion of his chest and the mere pressure of his hands bothered George.

CREATE MORE SCHOOLS FOR SOVIET VAGRANTS

Moscow—(AP)—Vagrant children in Russia number more than 200,000, the commissar of education has found. He characterized it as a situation menacing the welfare of the country and accordingly has organized a new system of factory schools for homeless children.

The big centers, like Moscow, Leningrad, Kharkov and others are overrun by homeless waifs who sleep on sidewalks, half naked and half starved. The "Central Lenin Fund" for vagrant children, to which the government contributed several million roubles and a which another few millions have been added by voluntary contributions, has been found insufficient.

The factory school intends to teach the waifs various trades in addition to their general education.

TRANSFUSION OPERATION CURES MANY SICK TREES

Auburn, Cal.—(AP)—Transfusion operations on sick trees, with a solution of ferrous sulphate assuming the character of arborical blood, are being made successfully in California. Diseased trees have been brought into prolific bearers.

Dr. C. B. Lipman, professor of plant physiology at the University of California, said when here that the treatment promised to eliminate such he, sidewalks, half naked and half starved. The "Central Lenin Fund" for vagrant children, to which the government contributed several million roubles and a which another few millions have been added by voluntary contributions, has been found insufficient.

WEEK'S GAMES
FRIDAY—APPLETON AT NEENAH.

SUNDAY—MENASHA AT APPLETON. Neenah at Oshkosh.

A trifle victory was the honor carried off by the Schlefer-Galpin Maroons, Appleton's representative in the Fox River Valley Ice Hockey league, Sunday afternoon at Jones park, when the local squad whipped the Oshkosh sextet, 2-1, in a loop game that lasted two extra ten-minute periods. Winning the game was not the only honor for Appleton was the first team to beat the Oshkosh boys in the last four years, which is some little honor in itself. The Oshkosh squad has been the class of the valley for years and its first defeat in the quarter span, administered by Appleton, was a bitter pill to swallow. The third honor came when Appleton scored its two goals for the 1925-26 puckchasers are the only Appleton team to SCORE ON Oshkosh in four years.

Unwilling to take a chance on starting two of his "shock troops" who had planned, because of the apparent strength of the enemy, Manager Walter Bell sent his regular lineup into the fray at the start and it was a lucky thing he did. Oshkosh opened with a field goal when Prasher, Appleton goaltender, shot the puck into his own net in attempting to deflect its flight. Joe Sharp, Maroon whiz, just returned to town, got the only clean goal of the game in the second period, driving a pretty shot past the Oshkosh net. Neither Prasher nor Allen was easily the star for Oshkosh, scoring their only marker and playing a whirlwind game on the ice. In fact he looked like the entire Oshkosh offense. He has scored every marker for his team this year. Joe and Percy Sharp played nice hockey for Appleton though all of the local men worked well and added a great deal in the win. The Appleton lineup consisted of Schultz, center; Percy and Joe Sharp wings; Goshu, Bruno Bell and Walter Bell defenses; Prasher, goal.

Oshkosh seemed very much "depressed" in losing its first game in years and at times threatened to let its temper run away with its play, going so far as almost starting at free-for-all fight at times. The win, with a forfeit by Menasha Friday when they failed to appear gives Appleton the top rung in the loop with the clean mark of two wins and no losses. The Maroons play two hard games this week hitting Neenah, a team, which held Oshkosh, almost even, at Neenah and then taking on Menasha here on Sunday.

Havana—Julian Moran, welter-weight champion of Spain, knocked out Lalo Dominguez, former light-weight champion to Cuba. (Nine rounds.)

NAVY'S LEADER OFFICIALS WANT 4 RULE CHANGES

Three New Proposals Said to Aid in Doing Away With Unnecessary Roughness

New York—(AP)—College football has two faults, in the opinion of the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials, which has made four recommendations for changes to the rules committee.

Three of the proposals have to do with unnecessary roughness. It is recommended that tackles above the shoulders be placed in that category in the future. If this measure is accepted a high tackle will result in a penalty of fifteen yards. The second proposal would permit the field judge to use a whistle and declare the ball dead on kicks across the line of scrimmage to prevent roughing the catcher of kicks. The third is designed to eliminate piling a trick which in the old days produced broken noses and sometimes much more serious injuries. For it was in the pile ups, many times unnecessary, that slugging occurred.

It is proposed that the ball be declared dead the moment the man carrying it touches the ground with any part of his body other than hands and feet.

Shift plays and the huddle system were attacked in the fourth recommendation which urges that no moving of the feet or swaying of the body be permitted as the ball is put in play.

Dilweg, chosen by many experts as an all-American end, was superb. The local experts allowed that Dilweg was far and away one of the greatest ends they have ever seen. The west couldn't gain an inch around his end.

In the third period Dilweg intercepted one of Muller's passes and gained 9 yards before being downed by three westerners.

This game presented by Islam temple of the Mystic Shrine of San Francisco for the benefit of a hospital for crippled children and was witnessed by 20,000 was unique in football history. If presented gridiron stars of twenty-five different colleges, the team called the east having been mobilized by Navy Bill Ingram and the one called the west having been mustered by Pusky Spratt, former California player.

"Y" OUTLINES BUSY WEEK FOR VACATION FOLK

Watch Night Party Will Be Big Feature of Activities

Plans for the program for the second week of Christmas vacation of members of the boys' division of the Y. M. C. A. are completed over the weekend and the final week of freedom for the youths promises to keep them even more busy than the initial week. The program will start Tuesday afternoon and will reach a climax with a New Years eve watch party Thursday night. The final parts of the program will be held on Friday and Saturday. The boys' department and the physical departments are co-operating in the work of the program.

A division free-throwing contest will be started Tuesday afternoon and will continue Wednesday morning with the finals coming as part of the watch party program Thursday night. All members of the division are eligible and a large entry list is expected.

Each boy will take 25 free throws and the high number made will mark the winner. Wednesday afternoon an interclub basketball tournament will be held with every boy's club of the department entering a team. The finals of this event also will be held as part of the watch party program on Thursday evening.

Thursday evening's watch party will be an all-night party held at the first 50 boys to sign up. At 12 o'clock all the boys will move to their New Years resolutions and then return to the boys' lobby, where they will sleep until Friday morning. Besides the finals of the free-throwing contest and the interclub basketball tournament, a variety of other games will be held during the evening and a large number of prizes will be awarded for the best and most interesting holiday work.

Other plans for the week will be presented in the boys' lobby.

BLAINE OBJECTS TO OSHKOSH TAX CRITIC

real and personal property taxes, for state purposes and the common school fund, $165,432.75, while this year, for the same purpose, not a single dollar of property taxes is assessed against them.

"In 1925 the income taxpayers will pay into the state treasury, in total numbers, $4,000,000, and that means that there will be a total tax, both real and personal income taxes, of $2,100,000 less than in 1924.

"The income taxes for the first time in the history of the state, that are paid into the state treasury, are applied to the reduction of the real and personal property taxes on farms, homes and business. The state gets none of the income tax any more, for the state government. Heretofore the state received 10 per cent of the income tax for the state government.

"Then again, you state that the gas tax of two cents a gallon will not net the state $5,000,000 or $6,000,000. The fact is that a state receives not one cent of the gas tax, and you know it, and you should be honest enough to tell the truth about it.

"The towns, villages, cities and counties get all the gas tax, for the streets, roads and bridges, for maintenance and construction. The state even pays for collecting the gas tax, and does it most economically, for $10,000 a year."

JAILED GIRLS PLEDGE LOYALTY TO WARDEN

Fond du Lac—Prevented by rules from giving a gift as expression of esteem, inmates and matrons of the state industrial home for women at Taycheedah, near here, on Saturday presented to Mrs. Pearl Phillips, superintendent, a scroll containing their pledge of "loyalty and cooperation" in the affairs of the institution.

It had been the plan of the inmates and matrons to express their sentiment through a Christmas gift. Learning that this was forbidden by the rules of the state board, they drew up the document presented Saturday and gave it to the official hearing the signatures of 58 inmates and nine attendants.

The presentation was the climax of Christmas activities at the home which included the presentation of playlets by the inmates, special holiday meals and other entertainment features.

ARTIFICIAL ICE FIRMS ARE FORCED TO LIMIT

Monroe—Electrical refrigeration has reached a high point for a city of 40,000, it is revealed by Vernon E. Turner, district superintendent of the Wisconsin Power and Light company. The large number of cheese cold storages with the low supply of ice due to the inland situation of the city, is said to limit about the condition. There are twenty-five commercial ice machines in the city, totaling nearly 500 horsepower and consuming 17,437 kilowatt hours annually. The machines return to the power company $15,000 annually or approximately $3 for every person in the city.

Railroads Are Swamped With Holiday Traffic—Highways Drifting in

Appleton's festive holiday population was probably the largest on record. If the railroads and bus lines are any indication, for these transportation agencies reported immense traffic. Every train passing through the city over the Chicago and North Western railway for the last few days has been crowded to capacity, and Sunday trains will run in two sections to accommodate the enormous crowd returning home after spending Christmas here with friends and relatives.

The extreme cold weather of the last few days had little effect on the holiday schedule of the trains. Some delays in the Chicago line, but the city was due to the heavy Christmas traffic, and the number of prolongs of trains at the station.

At extreme cold weather of the last few days had little effect on the holiday schedule of the trains. Some delays in the Chicago line, but the city was due to the heavy Christmas traffic, and the number of prolongs of trains at the station.

There is considerable drifting snow on some of the country roads near Appleton, making motor travel difficult in some places. This is especially true on roads running north and south, where the snow blown from the fields in the prevailing wind has piled up on the roads. Traveling is especially difficult along the Appleton-Milwaukee route on a four mile stretch of road running north and south in the vicinity of Defflon and Forest Junction. It was said at the bus depot that it was doubtful whether the Milwaukee bus could look the drifts on this stretch any longer, and that this line might be discontinued Monday or Tuesday until the snow has cleared away. Traffic between Fond du Lac and Milwaukee also was a struggle.

Good car service both local and regional continues, unimpeded throughout the cold spell.

CHANCE PROMISED

The weather man has promised an increase in temperature for the day, with possible snow, as the forecast says the skies will be cleared. The coldest day of the winter up to the present time was Saturday when the thermometer of Schiller Hardware Co. registered 13 degrees below zero at 7 o'clock in the morning. Sunday morning the mercury was eight below, while on Monday morning at 7 o'clock it registered two below.

Angered fire fighters had plenty of work to do during the cold snap for the department responded to five alarms over the weekend. None of the fires was of a serious nature.

30 FREEZE TO DEATH IN WEEKEND COLD WAVE

several here since Saturday. The fatalities included four men found frozen to death in the streets. Three deaths occurred at various points in Ohio and three in Kentucky. In Philadelphia an aged lampmaker lone survivor of another day, fell on his post in one of the Richmond streets. He was carried to a hospital where he died of exposure.

Fires at Wheeling, W. Va., caused $400,000 damage. A house block was destroyed at Williston, N. D., with $150,000 damage. Golden, Ill., witnessed a $1,000,000 blaze and a half million went up in flames in Ohio. Numerous smaller fires throughout the country helped swell the total loss.

While below zero temperature prevailed the entire weather map Saturday night and Sunday, the record for extreme drops was held by the northeast. The low point at Tupper Lake, N. Y., was 25 with Stewartstown, N. H., a close second with 27. Marks of ten to 14 below were common in the middle west and Rocky mountain states. The Mercury at Muskegon, Mich., reached 19 below while such scattered points as Albia, Iowa, and Saint Ste. Marie, Mich., tied at 14 minus. The Ohio river was choked with ice floes and water traffic was tied up.

LIMBS FROZEN

Milwaukee—(P)—No deaths from extreme cold had been reported in Wisconsin, although numerous cases of frozen limbs had been noted at local hospitals.

In Milwaukee one man was reported near death from freezing. He is in a critical condition at a hospital here. Nearly one hundred cases of frost-bite were in the hospital lists.

The lowest temperature recorded here Sunday was 9 degrees below zero. The temperature is slowly rising in all parts of the state.

DEATHS

ROBERT PRIBBERNOW

Robert Pribbernow, 96, pioneer resident of a rural town of Maple Creek, died at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning of heart disease after a short illness. The funeral services were held at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon from Emanuel Lutheran church at Maple Creek. The Rev. Kurt Tunnel had charge of the services. Interment was made in the new Maple Creek cemetery.

Mr. Pribbernow was born Dec. 1, 1829 at Maple Creek and made his home there all his life. He is survived by his widow; three sons, George, Louis and Hugo, Maple Creek; two sisters, Mrs. Gustave Frederick, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Korbein, Birmahood.

George Pribbernow, son of the late Robert Pribbernow, was taken ill with appendicitis at his father's funeral Saturday afternoon. His condition is improving, according to reports received.

MICHAEL LONG

Michael Long, 67, died Sunday morning at his home in Bear Creek after an illness of about three years. He was born in the town of Bear Creek where he lived until his marriage on Nov. 23, 1886 to Miss Bridget Flanagan. The couple resided on a farm in the town of Bear Creek and about ten years ago when it moved to the village of Bear Creek.

Mr. Long is survived by his widow and four daughters, Mrs. Den Monty, New London; Frances, Anna and Mildred, at home; one son, George, one daughter, Mary, Huestis, one son, Bear Creek; four brothers, George, Bear Creek; Joseph, Clintonville; John, Shawano; William, Grandon. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning from St. Mary church with the Rev. M. Alt. conducting the services. Interment will be made in St. Mary cemetery at Bear Creek.

ALBERT H. GORGES

Albert H. Gorges, 63, died Saturday afternoon at his home, 900 N. Superior-st. The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from Emanuel Evangelical church.

Mr. Gorges was born April 10, 1862 in Waukegan and was married in 1887 to Miss Lydia Sanderlin. The couple settled on a farm in the town of Center where they lived until 1904 when Mr. and Mrs. Gorges moved to Appleton. Mr. Gorges was interested in the automobile business, having sold the first electric automobile in this city. The survivors are his widow; one son, Harvey H. Milwaukee; one sister, Mrs. Ferdinand Pursh, Center.

ROHAN FUNERAL

The funeral services of Mrs. William Rohan, who died Tuesday evening at St. Vincent hospital at Green Bay, were held with a requiem high mass at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Mary church at Kaukauna. The Rev. Conrad Ripp conducted the services. Interment was made in St. Mary cemetery at Kaukauna. The survivors are six cousins of Mrs. Rohan, Patrick Powers, Francis O'Hanlon, William Keenan, John O'Connor, Edwin O'Connor and Edward Powers. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in this vicinity and was attended by relatives and friends from Chicago, Milwaukee, Kenosha, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, De Pere, Seymour, Kaukauna, Hillbuck, Black Wolf, Green Bay, New Holston, Green and Hammond, Ill.

CANDY IS BLAMED FOR DEATH OF CHILD

Beloit—Acute digestive disorders, believed to have been caused by eating candy given her at a Christmas party, caused the death Christmas night of Florence Kline, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Kline, this city. The child had been making merry all day, but late in the afternoon complained of stomach pains. She died before a doctor could be summoned.

5 ROADS FIGHT NEW STOKER LAW

Railways Seek Injunction Restraining State from Enforcing Safety Measure

Madison—(P)—Five railroads in Wisconsin have opened an attack on the new state law requiring the gradual equipment of large locomotives with automatic stokers.

A hearing has been set for Jan. 9 in Milwaukee, before three federal judges on the question of issuing a temporary injunction to prevent enforcement of the law. The case will be heard by United States District Judge F. A. Geiger and two others who are expected to be Judge C. Z. Luse and Evan A. Evans.

The mechanical stokers law was enacted by the 1925 legislature after a hard fight. It was supported by railroad employees and labor organizations, the author being Assemblyman C. S. Geraldson, a locomotive engineer of Superior. It was opposed by the railroads that brought the suit to nullify it.

The law provides that engines weighing 182,000 pounds or more on the drivers, and operating in Wisconsin shall be equipped with automatic stokers. The new equipment should be added gradually.

The legislation was urged as being in the interest of public safety, it being contended by the sponsors that the firemen would be enabled to assist the engineers in watching for signals and highway crossings. A law requiring curtains on locomotives, recently upheld in the state supreme court, the railroads assert that the legislation is unconstitutional and contrary to the principal of federal regulation of interstate commerce.

PASSES STATE TEST

Norman Schomisch of Oshkosh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schomisch, 824 W. Lawrence was one of five out of a hundred candidates who were successful in passing a state certified public accountant examination written two months ago in Madison. Mr. Schomisch was notified Thursday that he had passed the examination. He has been employed by the accounting firm of Lamb and Graham in Oshkosh.

ALUMNI BOARD SCORES REGENTS GIFT POLICY

The resolution orbids all such gifts for all such purposes," says the committee.

"We think the adoption of this blanket resolution was a mistake." The report queries in places from the testimony and documents presented to the committee. It also explains the organization of the some fifteen corporate foundations, including the General Education board, and their manner of giving. The resolution would cut off the university from all of them, the alumni declared. The gifts of the General Education board are bestowed without restriction as to the policy of their use, it is asserted. No evidence of ulterior purpose on the part of any of the foundations was found.

Dr. E. A. Birge, president emeritus of the university, and other members of the faculty "all concurred in the opinion that the receiving of gifts, without strings, to the university from corporate foundations would not compromise complete academic freedom," the report reads.

LIVELY MARKET AFTER YULETIDE

Optimistic Business Forecast for 1926 Encourages Bidding on Wall Street

New York—(P)—Rising prices marked the resumption of stock trading Monday after the Christmas recess. Encouraged by the forecast of business leaders that prosperity would continue through 1926, traders engaged in spirited bidding for popular stocks such as American Can, General Motors, General Electric, United States Steel and American Smelting, lifting prices 1 to 2 points. Standard Oil of California and Pacific Oil soared 2 to 5 points in response to merger plans.

Under impetus of a favorable trade and monetary conditions, including reports of extra ordinary retail holiday business and an increase in reserves of the local banks, the upward movement of prices gained momentum as trading progressed. Rail shares were inclined to lag behind the rest of the list although New York Central attained a new peak price and Southern Pacific was in brisk demand. Accumulation of buying orders or Pacific Oil, following announcement of its consolidation with Standard of California caused a split opening at 74 1/2 compared with the previous closing of 70 1/2. United States Iron Pipe, Brown Shoe and Willys overland preferred were bid up 3 to 4 points and a long list of more moderate advances included Postum Cereal, International Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Corro De Pasco Copper, Woolworth, Maryland Oil and Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron, the last named being bought on prospects of an early termination of the anthracite strike. Foreign exchanges opened steady with demand sterling unchanged at 4.84 1/2.

Some of the oils and specialties yielded later on profit taking, standard oil of California reacting two points from its initial figures. While Stewart-Warner sold three and Postum Cereal 4 1/2 points under Thursday close.

The general market, however, continued strongly upward, although call loans again recovered at 6 per cent. Motors were in greatest favor, Chrysler rising 7 points to 29 1/2, while the new stock touched 50 1/2. Hudson gained 3 1/2, National Tea jumped up 2 1/2. Federal mining and smelting improved 3 1/2 and Burns Brothers "A" 4 points.

The closing was strong. Profit taking in some of the motor issues in the final hour contrasted with the unabated demand for railroad and oil shares. Total sales approximated 2,1

RESORTS GIVEN PHONE DISCOUNT BY STATE RULING

Cottage Owners Will Get Rebate During Inactive Season

Owners of summer cottages on Lake Winnebago and at other resort centers in Wisconsin will not be required to pay the full annual telephone rate asked by the Wisconsin Telephone Co., according to a decision of the Wisconsin railroad commission. They will be given a discount during the period their cottages are unoccupied.

Lochlyst association, composed of owners of cottages at Lochlyst beach, on the north shore of Lake Winnebago, was among the complainants when the telephone company insisted this last year that the full annual rate be paid. Formerly payment was required only during the resort season from June to October. Thomas W. Orison entered the protest for the Lochlyst group, composed mostly of Appleton families residing there each summer.

The commission has ordered the Wisconsin Telephone Co. to charge its regular rates for service to summer season subscribers and then deduct 75 cents for each month that the service is not actually used. The subscribers will be billed annually in advance for the service.

Notice of the ruling has not yet been received by the Appleton office. The company had asked for authority to place its service to vacationists and other occupants of cottages in various summer resorts of the state on an annual rate basis. Many persons living in Chicago and other places outside of the state as well as within the state in Wisconsin for most of the year, are in the summer.

BANDIT'S WIFE IS VICTIM OF BANDITS

Mrs. Louise Newton, of Chicago, formerly of New London, wife of Willis Newton, mail robber serving a 12-year sentence in prison, recently was robbed of a fur coat valued at $200 and two diamond rings valued at $200 and $225 in cash, she reported to Chicago police. She was found in a dazed condition on a downtown corner and when revived by police told of the robbery.

Mrs. Newton told police she thought she had been drugged in a North side cabaret which she visited with Vida Ogelsby, a sister of the Newton brothers, to learn the address of Helen McNeil, one-time suspect in connection with the robbery.

NEW RULES GOVERN COLLEGE DEBATE LOOP

New rules in the Interscholastic Debating league sponsored by Lawrence college will make the race for state honors more intense than ever, as a school now takes part in four debates before being eliminated. In former years a school which lost in its first triangle debate was eliminated from further competition.

Under the new policy, after four debates have been held, the nine schools which have the largest number of points will continue in the finals.

Harry M. Snyder, a junior at Lawrence, and secretary of the league, says that the enrollment of schools so far is much greater than other years at this time.

Fort Atkinson high school won first honors in 1924 with Kaukauna high school placing second. The question of child labor is being debated in the league this season.

Pictures "painted" entirely with the juices of flowers were recently exhibited in London. The colors are obtained by rubbing the flower petals across the paper.

WANT STREET ON BANK OF CANAL

Opening Up of E. Newberry-st Will Provide Outlet from Lave-st

Opening up of E. Newberry-st as proposed in a resolution adopted by the city council will be one more step toward encouraging the use of Lave-st bridge for some of the traffic that now congests S. Oneida-st. The street is to be staked out by the city engineer and an estimate furnished the council as to the cost of preparing it for traffic.

This roadway formerly was known as Canal-st and was made a part of E. Newberry-st when the changes were made about a year ago. It angles northward from E. South River-st almost at the S. Oneida intersection and runs close to the south bank of the government canal to S. Lave-st. Here there is a jog and the street then continues into the lower Fourth ward.

The right-of-way already is owned by the city and it has been unused for several years. Recently there was a demand for a new road. It is pointed out by E. M. Connelly, city engineer, that automobiles going south over Lave-st bridge can turn west on this new street and emerge on S. Oneida-st instead of climbing the steep S. Lave-st hill. A short cut from the First ward to the south side is provided.

Another outlet from Lave-st bridge is being provided by the placing of a bridge over the tailrace at Telulah papermill so traffic can reach the "flats" by way of S. Island-st.

LOTS OF GRAPEFRUIT GOING TO LOCAL STORES

Appleton fruit and grocery stores have especially fine grapefruit in market at the present time, as the season for this popular breakfast dish is now at its height, and great quantities of the fruit are arriving from Florida. Very little California grapefruit is being received here, as the Florida brand is much sweeter, and it takes less time to ship it to Wisconsin. The prices of larger brands of grapefruit are two for 25 cents and 3 for 25 cents. Another medium sized variety sells for 25 cents for four. The smallest varieties are being sold for 50 cents a dozen.

COUNTY SCHOOLS WIN APPROVAL

State Superintendent Com-
mends Rural Normal
School on Its Efficiency

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, has written a letter from John Callahan, state superintendent, in which hearty praise is extended for the action of the Outagamie Rural Normal school in completing numerous improvements during the past year. Improvements at the institution consisted of installation of a new heating system, building of cupboards and modifying several practices of instruction, all of which were recommended in last year's report of the state superintendent. Mr. Callahan expressed the belief that, with the additional teacher in the model department, the school is equipped to do work second to none in the state, and said that the work of the supervisor was outstanding in effectiveness.

Mr. Callahan also addressed a letter to A. L. Collier and Nellie McDermott, supervising teachers of the county, in which appreciation for the splendid work which they were doing in the county was expressed. He declared that Outagamie county teachers were receiving the best of detailed guidance by the supervising teachers through outlines, conferences and careful follow-up work which the latter were conducting.

After Others Fail! Don't Give Up

HE who hesitates is lost is an old saying, but true, and it has kept many people invalids all their lives. If they had taken their case in its infancy and treated it as if they meant business, they would have averted that operation, its after effects, and the large fee of the surgeon. Not only in health, but the man who has always stayed in the hole and dared not venture out has never made a fortune. The step must be taken if you accomplish good health or wealth.
